Agreement Reached On Teachers Contract

Princeton's teachers and the school board have reached agreement on a new two-year contract which provides a salary increase, overall, of nine and one-half percent in each of the two years.

This fall, for example, a new teacher with a fresh B.A. would be hired at $13,400. That's the bottom of the scale. At the top is a teacher with 14 years' experience and a doctorate, at $30,200. In 1983-84, the same salaries will be $14,535 and $32,725. These are, of course, ten-month salaries.

Princeton's salaries are always thought to be at the top. But a study by Curt Wary, assistant director of labor relations for the New Jersey School Boards Association, shows that the starting salary here is actually below the state average.

Adjusting to coincide with the 12-month work year of other professions, Mr. Wary finds that the average starting salary for a New Jersey teacher with a B.A. is $15,688 — $2,288 more than the Princeton entry salary. The average start-up salary for someone who majored in accounting and has a B.A. would, in contrast, be $16,980.

In Princeton, which is an "old" district, 80 percent of the teachers are at the top of the scale. This doesn't mean that four-fifths of Princeton's teachers necessarily have a PhD. They might have 14 years of service and an M.A., with a salary of $27,145 next year, or an M.A.-plus-30 credits, for $28,960.

In a newer district, like West Windsor-Plainsboro, or an urban district where there is a great deal of turn-over, the percentage in those top brackets would be much lower.

This is a costly percentage for Princeton. It is one reason, points out Superintendent Paul Houston, why per-pupil costs are high.

The superintendent's salary does not come under any union negotiating process. The school board was scheduled to vote this Tuesday on a contract giving him a raise to $56,600.

In his study, Mr. Wary reminds citizens that it is difficult to compare teachers' salaries with those of other people. They have tenure, they are allowed preparation time,

Parking Fines Increase

Overtime parking at a Borough meter will now cost you $6, instead of the $4 you've been paying. No point in fire-bombing Borough Council, these fines are set, not by Borough officials, but by municipal court. The Borough's municipal court has just received permission from the state court system to raise the fine schedule

"This is only a 50 percent increase," Mayor Robert W. Cawley says soothingly. "The last increase was 100 percent: from $2 to $4 back in 1970."

You'll also pay $6 if you're caught meter-feeding, and $6 if you overstay your welcome in 15- and 30-minute zones, and one- or two-hour zones Overnight parking still draws the same $5 penalty

4-Story Gershen Office Building Approved by Environmental Board

It may look like a comedy of errors to the audience, but it's not necessarily a laugh-riot if you're in the cast.

The four-story Gershen office building at 182 Nassau was on the agenda of Monday night's Environmental Design Review Committee, and in fact made its way successfully through the EDRC. But not before members debated whether to hear the presentation at all, and finally decided they would, by a 3-2 vote.

At issue: the width of Nassau Street, set by the state — in concrete? — at 99 feet. The Gershen building goes over that line, even though it will be exactly even with Cox's, next door.

The Borough engineer, George Olexa, claims that Mr. Gershen filed four days late for his EDRC appearance. Joseph Stonaker, Mr. Gershen's attorney, says a secretary in Mr. Olexa's office stated, in a telephone conversation, that May 28 was a satisfactory filing date. Mr. Olexa says that no one in his office would have made such a statement.

At issue (in part): the status of approval for Mr Gershen's temporary parking lot.

According to Mr. Olexa, Mr. Gershen had not completed his required approvals for that lot, allowed the approval to lapse, received approval a second time but never obtained final approval from the Borough Zoning Board

Told that the EDRC application was filed too late, Mr. Stonaker suggested to Mr Gershen that the temporary parking lot be closed. If, the attorney reasoned, the lot is in technical violation — close it.

Mr. Olexa says Mr. Stonaker "threatened" to close the lot. Those who were parking there — employees of various offices in the area, and people who buy ice-cream cones across the street from Thomas' Sweets — were outraged

They called Mayor Robert W. Cawley and protested vigorously Because the situation had become a "public problem," in Mr. Olexa's phrase, the building was allowed on the EDRC agenda.

Nuclear Protest Goes Smoothly in New York; Seven Princeton Residents Arrested Monday

The weather cooperated, so did Conrail and so did the New York City Police. Princeton residents who took part in last Saturday's massive march and demonstration for nuclear disarmament in Central Park are of one accord that it was a wonderful and profoundly moving experience.

"Just great" is the comment of the Rev. Robert Moore, coordinator of the Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament that chartered and organized a special 12-car train to take area residents into the city. "When that many people get together to make a statement, the government leaders have to pay attention," Mr. Moore said. "There was a real sense of being part of something massive and historically significant," he added.

Mr. Moore and seven other Princeton residents were arrested for civil disobedience actions early Monday morning at the U.S. Mission

Gershen Building

Mr. Stonaker points out that he went twice to the EDRC for approval of the temporary lot, and twice received approval. His client was, however, asked to do paving, lighting and screening, which he felt was unreasonable since the lot was only a temporary one, to be removed when the office building moved in.

The next issue: Route 27, says New Jersey's Department of Transportation, is 99 feet wide. Bellows' store, on Moore, was allowed to have an awning outside that 99-foot limit. When Princeton University considered removing some steps from buildings it owns across from the Gershen property, the DOT said, in effect, you touch those stairs, and the whole porch will have to come off.

This is because the DOT does allow existing structures that protrude, but apparently doesn't want them touched.

According to Mr. Olexa, the Gershen building is 10 to 15 feet over the line. Martin G. Miller, assistant Borough engineer, reports that DOT officials have told him "no way" will they allow a new four-story office building over that line.

Mr. Stonaker points out that the Gershen building will be in a line with Cox's and other existing buildings and will not protrude into anything. He says he will ask the state for a permit.

"I'm sure we can work something out with the DOT," he said this week. He also quotes from a letter written by Michael A. Lemmo, of the DOT, explaining the permit procedure. Mr. Stonaker said he was puzzled because the letter was addressed to Alma Field in the Borough engineer's office. Mrs. Field is Borough representative on the Planning Board and not a member of the engineer's staff.

The next issue: what happens at the Borough Zoning Board and the Planning Board.

The building has been placed on the agenda for the Zoning Board's regular meeting of Thursday, June 24. Mr. Stonaker said it was "very gracious" of the board's president, John McGoldrick, to allow it on the agenda since the board hears only four cases at a meeting, and the Gershen building is a fifth. It will be heard, according to the board secretary, if there is enough time.

What Mr. Gershen needs from the board, is site-plan approval for the building.

Then, the developer will journey to the Planning Board on July 6 to ask variances for the temporary parking. Mr. Stonaker said he is going to the Planning Board at the behest of Mr. Olexa.

"We have to ask for variances for a parking lot that will eventually be removed," Mr. Stonaker observed wryly. "If we don't get the variances, we'll close the lot."

In considering approval for the site plan, the Zoning Board will be guided by comments from the EDRC. Members of the EDRC expressed concern Monday night about a "massive" facade, and the window treatment. The tan stucco building, trimmed in bronze, will have no store-windows as such, on its retail ground floor; instead, windows on all three commercial floors will be the same.

The EDRC also worked over parking in the tight confines of the proposed underground garage. Members, following a memorandum from Mr. Olexa, suggest rounded railings on the fourth-floor apartment balconies. This is to make sure that tenants won't set a geranium pot on the balcony railing, with consequent hazard to pedestrians below.

For security, elevators in the building will be operated only by a key in the tenant's possession. Recommendations are also made for garbage disposal, in both residential and commercial spaces, and the EDRC hopes for plantings, front and rear.

Parking Fines

Parking in prohibited zones, like bus stop or taxi stand, now brings a $10 fine, instead of $5 as before. Most other "no parking" violations remain at $5, although backing into a stall or parking outside the lines have been increased from $4 to $5.

If you violate the "no parking 8-9 a.m." sign or the "4-6 p.m." sign, the fine is now $10, the same as for a violation of the "Emergency no parking" instruction.

At Princeton High School, you can be fined $5 for parking in a "No stopping or standing" zone, or parking outside a marked stall.

And if you own a dog.....

Allowing the dog to run at large — $25, instead of $15. Failure to license your dog — $20, instead of $15.

For property-owners who plan ahead, the fine for leaving ice and snow on the sidewalk is now $20, and not $15.

SEWERS BY '83

For Pennington, Hopewell

"What I'm really looking toward is the ceremonial 'first flush'," said Ezra Bixby, Pennington Council member and Stony Brook Regional Sewerage Authority chairman, as he turned the first shovel of dirt so that construction could move ahead on waste treatment plants for Hopewell and Pennington.

He said he hoped for that first flush of victory late in 1983. The two plants, almost identical, will discharge highly-treated effluent into Stony Brook and Beden's Brook. The Pennington plant is east of King George Road and north of Pennington-Rocky Hill road on land acquired from Mobil. The Hopewell plant will be east of Aunt Molly Road next to Beden's Brook. The site was purchased from the Archdiocese of Trenton.

Sewer collection systems have already been built in Hopewell and Pennington, but cannot be used until these plants are in operation.

Brian O'Reilly, former Hopewell Council member who shared ground-breaking duties at the Hopewell site with Mayor William Walker, urged home-owners to prepare, financially, for sewer hookup.

"There will be new costs home-owners will have to pay," he warned, "both to connect to the system, and to operate it. Now is the time to begin planning for those costs."

He said the Authority will keep property-owners informed about progress of the new plants, and when the plants can be expected to go into operation.

The construction is funded with part of a $9 million Federal grant received by the Authority last October. The contractor is Roland Aristone, Inc., with the low bid of $6,842,820.

Construction of the two treatment plants represents a victory for environmentalists who argued forcefully — and victoriously — a decade ago that three plants would mean less environmental damage than a single large one. The third plant is the River Road plant in Princeton.

Others who participated in the informal ground-breaking ceremonies were Pennington Mayor Beverly Thurman, and, for Hopewell, Council members Herman Espenhorst, Tom Deering, Priscilla Hunt and Borough clerk Doug Terhune.

DECISION POSTPONED

On Landmarks Ordinance. Township Committee has put off a decision on whether or not to introduce the revised landmarks ordinance proposed by the Historic Sites Commission. After hearing supporting arguments and the dissenting view of Princeton University, Committee tabled discussion for a work session sometime in July.

Charles St. John, chairman and Constance Greiff, a member of the Historic Sites Commission spoke in favor of the ordinance, as did Nancy Clark of the Historical Society, and Steve Slaby. Mr. Slaby and Robert Hosford played a part in alerting the public to the proposed demolition of three historic houses on Williams Street to make way for the new biology building. The three buildings were subsequently moved by University to space behind Nassau Street.

Mr. St. John reminded Committee that the Historic Sites Commission was created with a mandate to come up with an ordinace. When Committeeman Richard Schoch asked, "Suppose we don't pass this ordinance?" Mr. St. John replied tartly "You are rehuffing us and depriving the community of the benefits of the ordinance."

The proposed ordinance has been changed from a version introduced in 1978 but never acted upon to include an owner consent provision. Asked if he was happy with that provision and did it render the ordinance "toothless," Mr. St. John said that "half a loaf is better than none" and he felt that because certain benefits would accrue to consenting property owners that there would by many who "will jump at it."

Mr. Salby, however, was concerned with the "watered down" version and called for an ordinance that was both strong and fair. He suggested that each case should come up for public debate and be decided on its merits so that the public is kept aware and participates in the implementation of the ordinance.

Mr. Slaby cited the demolition of large sections of the old sewage plant on River Road as an instance in which "the public didn't know–the ordinance is necessary to let people know." James Britt, representing the University, countered with examples of buildings that are being utilized and renovated without another board of review, which is the University's chief complaint against the proposed ordinance.

He cited Consittution Hill and Markham Place, but Mrs. Greiff took issue with him on what had actually taken place at Markham Place. The McCosh house was scheduled for demolition she said, and it was largely the efforts of herself and a few others that persuaded the developer to incorporate it into his condominium plan.

"What is needed is a mechanism for consultation," she said. "It is not fair to depend on the vigilance of a few people in the community." The ordinance will provide that mechanism, in her view.

Educational Zone. In other business, Committee set July 7 as the date for the public hearing on creating a new educational zone for Institute of Advanced Study lands which would make cluster development mandatory if the lands are to be developed for market housing.

Committee also decided to follow the lead of the Borough in limiting the number of amusement games permitted in any one business establishment. Committee is concerned that arcades could be created.

Although there are licensing provisions currently in effect for amusement games, and the fees have been increased recently to $100 a machine, Committee is concerned that empty stores in the Shopping Center could be turned into arcades with nothing but electronic games if additional regulations were not adopted.

Banning the machines altogether is probably unconstitutional, an infringement of the property owner's rights, but Township Attorney Edwin W. Schmierer felt Committee would be on safer ground setting a numerical limit in an establishment in which the games are not the principle activity.

OFF TO ZONING

With PCH Housing. Having decided that the former Borough sewer field is a better spot for senior citizen housing than the Harrison Street playground, Princeton Community Housing, Inc., has now decided to ask the Borough Zoning Board for the necessary variance to build there.

The land is in the R-t residential zone where only single-family houses are allowed. The alternative approach would have meant asking the Planning Board to amend the Master Plan by creating the kind of zone where senior citizen housing would be allowed.

No date has been set for appearance before the Zoning

with Sam De Turo

Woodwinds Associates

A tree is God's creation everywhere on earth — including Brooklyn It's said man once lived in trees When he climbed down, life never again was to be quite so simple yet only then did the tree get truly appreciated For here was food and fuel and shelter Then a weapon, a tool, a wheel — and transportation

And now it's floors, doors veneers piers baskets caskets rubber for gaskets It's a handle for brooms shovels, rakes syrup on pancakes It's paper and paints tars spars, boxes and boxcars storage bins and bowling pins it's toothpicks and matchsticks even plastics materials for distillation lamination, insulation windows for ventilation and a thousand and one other we-can't-do-withouts

Yet few people look at a tree in the same way To the small boy it's a favorite and strategic place where you build a treehouse, spot a woodpecker cut slingshots and fishpoles hang old tires and climb for fun To the naturalists it's probing a fascinating world of buds blossoms bark needles cones and leaves spectacles of color and some 1 035 species

To the artist it's inspiration alone on a windswept hill timberline patchwork on a mountainside thick and verdant in a valley To the homeowner it's beauty and shade and property value also digging planting pruning edging, feeding and a lot of other weekend work To the hobbyist and craftsman it's a new bookcase, picnic table panelled den a chance to become downright "immortal"

To the lumberman it's a bustling big business measured by cords and board feet But most of all, a tree remains what it was in the first place man's everlasting friend For we'd be "slumped" for a mighty lot of things in the world without trees! (author unknown)

Board. Mayor Robert W Cawley said this week that PCH hopes to complete the required local approvals by the end of July.

FREEDOM SHORT LIVED

Escapee Recaptured In Trenton. On May 16, Joseph L. Kidd, 26, of Columbia Avenue, Hopewell, was arrested when he first rammed a police patrol car, sped down Nassau Street, brushed a university proctor's car, struck a light standard near Borough Hall, jumped from his wrecked car and was finally apprehended. Among the many subsequent police charges were drunken driving, reckless driving, leaving the scene of an accident, assaulting a police officer, eluding and resisting arrest.

Kidd made bigger headlines the next morning when, after being arraigned before Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. in Borough court, he pushed the two officers who were escorting him from the courtroom back to his cell, bolted out the front door of Borough Hall, and escaped on foot.

Kidd was arrested last Tuesday in Trenton by the Mercer County Sheriff's Department. Borough Lt. Thomas Michaud reported that the Sheriff's department had received information that Kidd was at his probation officer's office for an unrelated matter.

He was taken to the Mercer County Jail where he is now awaiting action by a Grand Jury because some of the charges against him, explained Lt. Michaud, were indictable offenses.

"We weren't the only ones looking for him," observed Lt. Michaud. "There were outstanding warrants against him from other communities."

DOUBLE TROUBLE

For Borough Man. Fifty-two year old James Dean of 32 Leigh Avenue ran afoul of the law twice Friday evening.

Police report that Dean was charged with criminal trespassing at the Suburban Bus terminal, Nassau and Witherspoon Street, at 8:30 and issued a summons.

A little over an hour later, Dean was arrested at 9:42 for creating a disturbance outside the terminal. He was taken to police headquarters and charged with being a disorderly person.

Lt Thomas Michaud reported that Dean was intoxicated, knocking over garbage cans, acting in a wild and violent manner, yelling profanities and threatening police officers. After being charged, he was held in jail until he sobered up and was then released.

Donald H Rickert, 20, 25 Monroe Avenue, has been charged with attempted larceny and criminal mischief, after he attempted to steal a double meter head on Prospect Avenue.

Lt. Michaud reported that Rickert was seen at 12:45 Wednesday morning trying to twist off the meter head in front of 83 Prospect. The head was loose but apparently it was his first attempt, Lt. Michaud commented, since none of the meter heads was missing.

Shoplifter Caught. Dana Smith, 27, of Monmouth Junction, has been charged by Township police with shoplifting in the Thrift Drug Store in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Smith was apprehended and detained by a store security officer after she allegedly tried to conceal a variety of store items valued at $51.38 in a shopping bag. She was taken into custody by Ptl. Virgil Angelini.

COSTLY DAY IN COURT

For Aiken Avenue Resident. It was an expensive day in Township court last week for Richard Landauer, 50 Aiken Avenue, who was arrested last month after he struck four parked cars in the Princeton Shopping Center and assaulted a police officer

Landauer was fined $250 and placed on a year's probation for resisting arrest and assault, the two charges merged into one. He was fined another $250 for malicious mischief and ordered to pay full restitution for damages he

Talk by Toma Spurs 30 Individuals To Seek Help for Drug Problems

They came from Hightstown High and Princeton High, Lawrenceville Preparatory School and Spotswood High in Helmetta, West Windsor-Plainsboro High and Carrier Foundation Day School, Hopewell Valley Central and Monroe Township High, and even from various eighth grades. There were some adults, too, more than one with personal experiences to relate.

Alerted by a Corner House flyer, passed around at last Wednesday's David Toma anti-drug appearances, more than 30 kids showed up Monday night at Corner House to talk, and answer the question, "What next?"

Most immediately, the answer is two nights a week through the summer, talking about drug and alcohol problems. Next Wednesday from 7:30 to 9 p.m., and next Thursday from 6 to 7:30 p.m. (June 23-24) at Corner House, in the northwest corner of the Valley Road building, anybody who wants to, can come and talk caused when confined in a Township jail cell.

In the fall, Corner House plans a leadership retreat for students from public and private high schools in the area. Using their own experience, and what they learn on that retreat, these students will travel to neighboring schools, teaching through skits, what drug and alcohol abuse can do to you.

Landauer was also fined $265 by Judge Sydney Souter and had his licence revoked for six months for drunken driving. He paid $65 and received another six months revocation for having no car insurance and was fined $40 for speeding in the shopping center, a violation of a Township ordinance.

Emma M. Callaway, Great and Drakes Corner Road, was fined $50 for shoplifting at Thrift Drugs in the Princeton Shopping Center; Hyette Briscoe, 52 Clearview Avenue, was fined $50 for theft by deception and ordered to pay $220 restitution to the Acme Market in the Princeton Shopping Center where he allegedly passed a worthless check. The complainant was the Acme manager, Jerry Rockhill.

Quin L. Beggs, 42 White Pine Lane, was fined $25 for driving alone on a motorcycle without a licensed driver, a violation of a conditional driver's license.

Borough Court. In Borough court Monday, Judge Russell W. Annich Jr. fined Dana L. Churchill, 49 Randall Road, $265 for driving while under the influence of alcohol and $40 for a red light violation.

Raymond K. Yu, Box 3163, Princeton, paid $20 for a red light infraction and Vladimir Metelsky, 143 N. Harrison Street, was fined $20 for a noisy dog, a violation of the Borough's noise ordinance.

POCKETWATCH MISSING

Valued at $2,750. A 14K gold pocketwatch, inlaid with diamonds and valued at $2,750, is missing from a bedroom bureau drawer in a Moore Street home.

Also missing, according to the victim who reported the theft Sunday, is a pearl inlaid tie clasp, assorted cuff links, fraternity pins and a suede leather jewel pouch. Combined value of all missing items is $3,175. Police report that there were no signs of forced entry.

A 35 mm camera and lens, valued at $375, were taken last week from a Linden Lane home while the owner was away.

Police report a neighbor noticed that a bedroom window had been pried open and notified police. The owner discovered the theft in checking the house upon his return two days later.

Between 5:30 Friday afternoon and 8 Monday morning, someone entered the University NOW Day Nursery located in the old Princeton Day School building on Broadmead. Once inside, the intruder then entered an administrator's office through an unlocked door and removed $120 from an envelope in a desk drawer.

An unlocked student's room in Little Hall on the university campus yielded a set of golf clubs and clothing with a combined value of $475. Borough police were notified last Wednesday of the theft.

Energy Referendum?

A package of energy projects, which could save money for Princeton's schools in the long run, may be submitted to the voters in a bond referendum, says Business Administrator Judith Horner.

A preliminary energy study has already been made. More sophisticated study is required before the package can be assembled, and presented to the voters for opinion.

An attempted burglary of a Spring Street apartment failed when the occupant returned home at 11:15 Friday morning and saw a man trying to force the door.

The suspect is described as a black male in his 20's, 5'10 to six feet tall, with short hair wearing blue jeans and a maroon jacket.

THEFT REPORT

Metal Furniture Taken. A six-foot metal bench and two metal frame chairs were stolen last week from a court yard on the south side of the Commodities Corporation building on Mt. Lucas Road. The firm valued the furniture at $890.

Four hubcaps worth $125 were stolen Friday night between 6 and 7 from a 1976 Plymouth while it was parked in Princeton University Lot 20. The victim is a Rocky Hill resident.

Early this week, Township police received a report from a Valley Road resident who left his car parked in his driveway while he went back to his house to get an article he had forgotten. When he returned a few moments later, his brown leather wallet containing $11 and 12 tape cassettes valued at $70 were missing from the car. "It happened that fast," commented Chief Frederick Porter.

Another quick theft took place in the Borough.

Police report while a customer was trying on clothes in a women's clothing store, she left her purse in a dressing stall to go look at herself in a mirror. In that brief moment, another customer in the store reached in and removed her wallet containing $28.

Ptl. Chris Boutote responded to a 4 p.m. call Monday and searched the area without success. The suspect is described as a black male in his 20s, six feet, 160 pounds, thin with short hair. Police declined to reveal the identity of the store.

A $75 hammock was stolen last week between 8 a.m. and 3 p.m. from the front porch of a

Markham Road home, and tools, clothing and a battery worth $175 were stolen from the car of a university student while it was parked behind a Nassau Street apartment.

Police said that the car, which was forced open, had been parked there for some time. The theft took place last month.

There were three bicycle thefts in the Borough last week. A bicycle valued at $200 and unlocked, was taken Friday morning from the Walnut Lane area next to Princeton High School while the owner was in class, and another was taken from in front of the Tiger Club on Prospect Avenue where it had been locked for a week to a lamp post. It is valued at $215.

A $220 model was taken sometime during the first week in June from an open garage on Prospect Avenue. Police report the bike was not locked.

THEFT TRY FAILS

At Bellows. Police have credited an alert clerk with foiling an attempted credit card theft Friday afternoon at Bellow's, 210 Nassau Street.

Lt. Thomas Michaud reported that as a customer attempted to purchase $47 worth of women's clothing with a Master Charge, he fled the store when the manager called for verification.

"As soon as that call went in he fled because he knew it was no good," said Lt. Michaud. He added that some stores will not call in a credit card check unless the purchase is $50 or more. Police have been unable to ascertain why the card was bogus, he added.

The suspect, he said, should not be hard to find. He was wearing a red hat and red shoes. He was further identified as a black male in his late 20s, thin, with a moustache and goatee, wearing beige pants

$155,000 GROSSED

By Hospital Fete. The 29th Hospital Fete, held last Saturday on Washington Road, was a sea of happy faces as a record crowd came to enjoy the annual outdoor fair under cool, cloudy skies. This year's Seasational Fete, dedicated to Princeton University, was co-chaired by Sharon Bilanin and Carol Jefferson.

The day's events grossed more than $155,000 for the Medical Center at Princeton Foundation, according to Debbie Shillaber; Fete treasurer. Last year the Fete grossed $184,000.

In the fifth annual 10K race, sponsored by Princeton Bank, Jeff Word finished with the best overall men's time of 32 51, followed by Paul Leetsma and John Shearer. Kelly Neilan led the women with a time of 37 50, ahead of Roslyn Schloss and Nora Hendricks

Mr and Mrs Gerald Beal of New York, who are house-sitting for friends in Princeton, were the winners of the 1982 Ford Escort and Mr & Mrs Thomas F Huntington of Allison Road won $350 worth of beef donated by Davidson's Market.

Waves of fair-goers enjoyed the auction, the sports activities and the shops Most of the food areas were sold out by mid-afternoon, including the new Clam Bar, sponsored by the Alchemist and Barrister, which had sold 3500 clams Strawberry shortcake, cotton candy, barbecued chicken, and 5000 hot dogs and hamburgers were rapidly consumed

Pam Abernathy and Lin duBois, Children's Entertainment chairmen, were delighted with the response to the Fun House, newly refurbished by Epstein's, and recounted the story of the child who had paid to go through the Maze 25 times and was finally allowed to go through free for being so loyal and enthusiastic. Karen Woodbridge, one of the Staging chairmen, commented that one of the most enjoyable aspects of her job was working with all the wonderful people from the area businesses, who donate so much time, energy, and materials to prepare and then restore the University field.

Hillary Potter, of Hightstown, and Carol Wojciechowicz from Princeton, will head the 1983 June Fete They have extended an invitation to the community to become involved in the annual fund-raiser, by contacting the volunteer office at the Princeton hospital.

FIREWORKS, AND $541

At Quarry Park. Somewhere in the neighborhood — the Quarry Park neighborhood, obviously — of 700 people "aaah!"ed at the rockets and shells that went whooshing skyward Saturday night as Dave Guerzini's Fireworks Benefit went off as ignited.

Spectators tossed $541.70 into the kitty for the Princeton Senior Resource Center Mr. Guerzini is still a firecracker or two short of meeting expenses for the show itself If you'd like to contribute, you may send a check payable to the P Q.P Benefit Fireworks Fund, to 6 Spruce Lane, Princeton, or to checking account 110-582, c/o teller, First National Bank, 90 Nassau, Princeton

If there is money left over, it will go to the senior center, and if you ask, you'll receive a statement for tax purposes.

But back to the fireworks.....

"Considering," Mr Guerzini points out, "the delay in getting a permit, the many volunteers at the hospital Fete, the nuclear rally in New York and the myriad obstacles otherwise — it was indeed a feat to complement the Fete! Only three weeks to raise money and implement, without typing ability or motor vehicle Whew!"

He is deeply grateful to volunteers, businesses that contributed and all the encouragement he had. "Thank God! And thank you all, so very much."

"WELL DONE"

Chamber, to Schools. Business operations in Princeton's schools run smoothly, but a lot more could be done on the maintenance side.

Asked by school Business Administrator Judith Horner to study business practices and make suggestions, the Chamber of Commerce not only agreed, but assigned its Education Committee to make the evaluation as a project.

The study was done without cost to the schools. One Chamber volunteer estimated that he spent 40 hours on the project, and Mrs. Horner thinks the others devoted an equal amount of time. Volunteers visited the schools several times, met together, reviewed material and wrote the final report

Short-cuts to save money aren't always a good idea, Mrs. Horner suggests. The Chamber committee advised the schools to start a grounds department, use energy-efficient lighting, recruit experienced employees and build the kind of staff that could start an on-going preventive maintenance program.

"As it is now," she points out, "we've tried to save money, and our grounds are in bad shape. We've been giving all our attention to the athletic fields."

An in-house training program should be started for maintenance employees, competitive salaries paid, work-orders systematized and perhaps even time-clocks installed

Expertise and management skills are needed in Transportation, the Chamber study warned. With the retirement of Ralph Bennett, the schools had planned to rely on computers to handle transportation problems. But "planning is a human responsibility requiring thorough knowledge of the community, and other factors of system management," the report points out

Incidentally, the Chamber found that Princeton's transportation expenditures are "consistent with, if not substantially lower than, rule-of-thumb figures from the state"

The Chamber found the school board already exploring ways to save money on insurance; for example, negotiations with Blue Cross reduced the rate by 20 percent

Why not explore home instruction via cable TV, or computerized instruction for both the gifted and handicapped? These suggestions are in line with Chamber suggestions to explore the "technological opportunities" for saving money.

"Keep up-to-date" on investment opportunities, advised the Chamber The schools seem to have an excellent investment program with the Completion Nears for Bike Paths On Rosedale, Elm and Bayard Lane

The route a bike path takes through governing bodies and funding agencies and engineers' drafting tables takes so long that the public sometimes forgets.

Why all the dirt and the uprooting on Bayard Lane, Elm Road and Rosedale Road? Bike paths you'd forgotten about.

The Borough is building and paying for the one on the west side of Bayard Lane ($13,900) so that children who live in the western section of the Borough can make their way safely to the school crossing guard at Birch Avenue and thence to the Middle School.

The new bike path on Elm is a connecting link. Under the 1979 Federal Green Acres program, the Borough built a path along Lovers Lane and Marquand Park, and on Elm from Cleveland Lane to Westerly Road.

Although funding for the Green Acres bike plan was reduced, citizen pressure on the Borough to provide safety for children, was not. So the Borough filled in the missing link on Elm between Stockton and Cleveland Lane. The cost is $44,000, but Mercer County will pay for the curbs, reimbursing the Borough $17,000, because the path is part of the county's own bike path program, which includes Rosedale Lane.

The joining of these segments makes it possible to bike from the canal through the Institute woods to Battlefield Park, along Mercer and Lovers Lane to Elm and the bike path up The Great Road to Woodfield Reservation.

Rosedale's path, now almost finished, is being built by Mercer County. Although it was supposed to serve kids going to Johnson Park School, it is useful even though public-school children no longer go there because it connects with the Elm Road path. And incidentally, none of these three paths affects "hazardous busing" of school children.

The county has used its own funds, with state and Federal money to build the path. No local money is involved. So far, the county hasn't said how much the path has cost, a difficult computation, officials say, because it was bid in separate contracts.

First National Bank, but the picture can change monthly, or even daily, the Chamber report said, and the schools should keep close watch

School boards could join to influence the state legislature, and increase their leverage. Boards have met to share services, Mrs. Horner says, but not always to influence events.

Food services in the schools are doing a "fine job" in controlling finances, the report found, comparing Princeton's food services favorably with those of research centers in the area.

Members of the Chamber team were Donald Conover of Western Electric, chairman of the Chamber's Education Committee; Judith Gordon, department chief of technical education development at Western Electric.

Tristam B. Johnson, account vice-president, Paine Webber; Lee R. Hill, director of building services, Princeton opposite the United Nations headquarters where a month-long special disarmament session is underway. The others were Larry Milner, Tamar Kohns and her 13-year old son Daniel, Sara Atatimur, a Princeton University student who is blind, Leo Schiff, Doreen Cornwell and Susan Greenthal, all students.

Nuclear Protest

In their "affinity group," an organizational unit within the overall carefully orchestrated non-violent civil disobedience action, were also two support persons, Jean Toarello and Rita Antebi, two housewives from Kendall Park, whose role was not to be arrested but to be available to make phone calls to relatives and provide other support services in the arrest and summons process.

According to Mr. Moore, the Princeton group was the first to be arrested at 7:20 as it slipped under the first of several barricades outside the U.S. Mission. Immediately confronted by the police, the group sat down and went limp when asked to leave and were picked up and carried by stretcher to a waiting bus.

After receiving a summons at police headquarters and released, Mr. Moore, Mr. Milner, Mr. Schiff and Ms. Cornwell went to the Soviet Mission on 67th Street to repeat the process. Mr. Moore said he "felt good at doing it at both superpowers — to have made a statement at both major culprits in the arms race."

Ms. Atatimur refused to give her name and was taken into custody and fingerprinted. The others decided to stay with her through the arraignment process. She was finally released by the judge on motion of the prosecuting attorney, Mr. Moore said, and the group returned to Princeton together.

For the march on Saturday, the Princeton contingent gathered outside Penn Station behind a 24-foot banner made by Erica Barton of Belle Mead. With its gaily painted flowers, the Coalition name, Princeton N.J., the banner was to serve as a locus for lost children and parents. Once inside the Park the size of the crowd and police barricades to create ambulance lanes made it impossible for 1,300 people to keep together.

However that did not seem to matter. Just being there, the numbers and different constituencies, the distances that many had travelled, the speeches and songs, the placards and deep sense of purpose evident everywhere were what made the day.

—Barbara L. Johnson

PHUN IN HOPEWELL. With Phillie Phanatic. It's Community Day in Hopewell — or will be, this Saturday starting at 9, with a flag-raising, prayer and welcoming address scheduled for 9:30

The Phillie Phanatic, mascot of the Philadelphia Phillies, will be at the Princeton Bank, East Broad Street, from 11 to 1. Most of the day's events will be on the bank's fairgrounds; however, there will also be activity at the Hopewell Museum, two blocks west of the bank on East Broad

The "Hopewell Challenge," a six-mile run, will start at 9 at Kooltronics on Hamilton Avenue. There will also be a two-mile fun run, if six miles is too much of a challenge. Applications may be obtained by calling Herman Espenhorst, 466-2047

Starting at 10, the Blawenburg Band will begin, continuing its concert until noon. The Trismen Puppets will perform from 10 until 10:30.

And also.....firemen's competition games, a drill-team exhibition, tee-shirts designed by a Hopewell sixth-grader, a Talent-and-Gong show, Jazzercise demonstration, "Marionettes" square dancing and, for dancing from 8 p.m. until midnight, the Harmony Band

Rides for the kids, country games, a flea market, arts and crafts displays, clowns, a magician, a storyteller for children and a zoo where you can pet the animals — all part of the country fair-style "Day." Organizations in Hopewell will have food and beverages for sale all during the day.

If it rains, Community Day activities will be held in the Hopewell Presbyterian Church, West Broad and Louellen Streets. The "Day" is sponsored by Hopewell Business Associates, and all proceeds go to charity.

CAR IS TOTALLED

In Mt. Lucas Accident. A car traveling on Mount Lucas Road at 1 Friday morning went out of control some 400 feet north of Herrontown Road and struck a pole. Police described the 1980 sedan as "totalled."

The driver, John E. Porterfield, 21, of Hollow Road, Skillman, told police that he had swerved to avoid a dog, causing him to lose control.

Ptl David Cromwell, who charged Mr. Porterfield with careless driving, noted in his report that the driver admitted he had been drinking.

Mr. Porterfield was treated for head lacerations. Also treated were two passengers, Akira Unemoto, 22, of Billings, Mont., for arm injuries and Cindy A. Vigel of Chicago, for head cuts.

Uninjured in another single car accident was Mary L. Hapgood, 20, 13 Broadripple Drive, who lost control of her 1982 car at 2:44 Sunday morning while rounding a curve on Hartley Avenue some 60 feet from Maclean Circle.

Her car left the roadway and traveled across the front of 240 and 248 Hartley, causing damage to trees and lawn. Ms. Hapgood was charged by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord with failure to keep right and failure to notify police of an accident.

collided Saturday afternoon at the intersection of Harrison Street and Terhune Road.

According to police, fonel Belcea, 52, 11 Carter Brook Lane, Kingston, failed to stop for the Terhune Road stop sign and collided with the bus operated by Robert Doan, 25 of Trenton. "I did not see the bus," Mr. Belcea told Ptl. Virgil Angelini, who ticketed him for a stop sign violation.

Mr. Doan was treated at Princeton Medical Center for minor chest injuries. An 82 year-old passenger, Ely Lewins, 217 Redding Circle, was also treated for injuries. Eight other passengers, ranging in age from 47 to 68, escaped injury.

Skidding Mishap. Two cars, both traveling south on Elm Road and preparing to stop for a red light, were involved in a collision Sunday afternoon.

The trailing driver, Kent D. Hill, 32, Crusher Road, Hopewell, told police that when he applied his brakes to slow down, his car immediately went into a skid on the wet pavement. His small car was totalled when it skidded into the rear of a car operated by Raymond A Bianco, 17, 66 Tee Ar Place.

Hill, who sustained contusions and lacerations when his head hit the windshield, was issued a summons for careless driving by Ptl Chris Boutote. Maureen Hill, 32, sustained contusions when her face also struck the windshield.

Eleven-year-old Harold Teeling of Hunters Glenn Road, Plainsboro, riding in the rear of the Hill car, sustained a bruise to his right shin. Two other passengers, 16 and 17, were uninjured. Both occupants of the Bianco car also escaped injury.

Ms. Hill received 638 votes and Ms. Radcliffe, 521. Mrs. Thayer's tally was 253. Running as a supporter of rent control, Mrs. Thayer ran best in District Four — her home district — and District Three.

There was no Republican contest, but incumbent Richard Woodbridge polled 557 to Henry Abernathy's 519.

Teachers

they work only ten months a year. They also have certain fringe benefits not always available in the business world

He says that, in addition to a full range of medical-surgical-hospital benefits, the majority of New Jersey teachers have some kind of dental insurance. This is not true for Princeton teachers, because dental insurance is very expensive.

Teachers in Princeton do have full medical coverage, and premiums are paid by the school board. However, officials point out that this is a kind of trade-off: if teachers had to pay their own medical premiums, presumably salaries would be higher. And presumably teachers like it better this way. Once negotiated, such a clause in a contract is usually in for life.

Also, Princeton teachers get 12 sick days (every New Jersey teacher receives at least 10, and some districts give 15). In Princeton, they receive two "personal" days, but may not use them to extend a vacation without approval

They may take five days, when a member of the immediate family dies; one day for the funeral of a relative or close friend; five days to take care of a sick person in the immediate family and, to a husband, three days to care for the family when the wife has a baby

Also — five days for a honeymoon and two days for the marriage of someone in the immediate family.

In comparison, Mr. Wary says that 89 percent of the state's districts gave from one to three personal days in 1979 contracts. In that same year, only 28 percent of the professional employees in private industry had such a benefit.

In Princeton's new contract, the school board negotiated one more teaching period for teachers at Princeton High School. They will now be required to teach six periods instead of five. This doesn't mean they have to teach more kinds of classes or more subjects, however.

It does mean, points out board president Ann McGoldrick, that the high school has more flexibility in scheduling. Class size can be reduced without the need to hire more teachers.

"When we can't afford to hire new members of the staff, this gives us more staffing ability," Mrs. McGoldrick said. "It's a valuable gain, and the teachers seemed to feel it was fair."

In fact, the school board president said, "Negotiations went extremely well. There was a lot of tough bargaining, but on the whole, attitudes were constructive.

"We achieved what we wanted, and I think each side felt they won something"

HEATHCOTE FARM IN THE WITHINGTON ERA: One of a series of photographs taken of the Isaac Withington mansion and grounds around 1880, this view shows the front of the house before the wooden porch was replaced by a port cochere. In extensive renovations in the early 1900's, the arched windows were squared off with a lintel, and the tall casement windows on the ground floor shortened.

Heathcote Farm, Home of Thomas Cook, Being Converted into Condominium Units

Following the trend begun by Guernsey Hall, Constitution Hill and the McCosh house at Markham Place, Heathcote Farm in Kingston is in the process of being converted into condominiums.

The mid-19th century stone mansion surrounded by wide lawns, towering trees and multiple gardens, Heathcote Farm has been the home of the Thomas Cook family since 1926. After the death of Mrs. Grace Cook in February, 1981, the Cook sons and daughters, many of whom live in the Princeton area, sought a way of preserving the property, as much for the beauty of its setting and its historic and architectural interest as for the fact that it had been the family center for half a century.

Peter Cook, who lives in the converted brownstone barn, and his son, John, who has built a home also on the property, got together with Clifford Zink, one of the three young men who restored Glencairn in Lawrenceville. Realizing that single family ownership of so grand a house is no longer economically feasible, the three formed a partnership for the purpose of renovating the interior to spread the financial responsibility for rehabilitation and upkeep over four dwelling units. Bill Short, who designed the Guernsey Hall Condominiums, was invited to be the architect for the project.

Heavy Masonry. The exterior of the building will remain virtually unchanged. The plan of the apartments will follow and take advantage of the heavy masonry construction which includes brick firewalls that flank a center hall and extend three stories to the roof.

There will be a single bedroom apartment on either side of that center hall on the first floor, and duplex, two-bedroom apartments on either side of the first and second floors. Each unit will have its own furnace and air-conditioning, its own terrace and exit onto the grounds, which include a swimming pool below the brow of the hill.

The solid brownstone construction (the exterior walls are 32-inches thick) is attributable to the fact that the house was originally intended to be a "House of Refuge" for juvenile offenders. Commissioned by the state in 1850, the proposed structure was to consist of a central building as a residence and offices for the keeper and his assistants and two extended wings with dormitories for 192 inmates. A special boat was built to ship huge quantities of brownstone up the D&R Canal from Delaware River quarries to Kingston.

The project was estimated to cost $64,000 (the total 1853 budget for the state was $160,000). But before the building could be completed, a controversy arose over spending so much for a House of Refuge when pressure was growing for state funding of free public schools.

BUSINESS In Princeton

A Summer Residence. Isaac Withington, a member of a prominent Kingston family that had played an important role in the development of stagecoach, rail and canal transportation in the area, repurchased the land he had originally sold to the state for the building. With the assistance of a Brooklyn firm of architects, he completed the structure as a summer residence in the Italianate Villa style similar to Guernsey Hall and Prospect.

It was Isaac Withington, too, who commissioned H.M. Saunders to Washington to design the grounds. The Saunders plan for a Victorian landscape still exists, a fading pen and ink drawing on cardboard backing which shows the location of some 65 specimen trees planted to enhance and frame vistas. Many of those original trees are still standing and have grown to immense proportions.

The formal landscaping design included a stone and iron gate on Main Street, circling lanes from which to enjoy the view, several strategically placed gardens, and an octagonal summerhouse, or gazebo, constructed atop the icehouse. Built of laurel root and rustic cedar, the gazebo is a rare example of Victorian garden architecture. Eight cedar trunks with branches that mimic gothic tracery hold up a domed roof with an open cupola that allows the heat to escape.

When Isaac Withington died in 1881, ownership passed to his son Charles, a lawyer whose avocation was selling flowers from the gardens to shops on Nassau Street. Phillippe Garneau purchased the property from the Withington heirs in 1906. The Garneau family was in the wine importing business (and still is today), and it planned to use the huge basement and underground tunnels for wine cellars.

Architectural Changes. In an extensive renovation, the Garneau's changed much of the building's Victorian detail, shortening the tall casement windows on the first floor, straightening arches over second floor windows, and removing wooden porches, a cupola and the bracketed cornice. They added two small wings, the shutters, and a port cochere and gave the house the neo-classical look that was so popular at the turn of the century.

But the wine business faltered during Prohibition, and when Thomas and Grace Cook of New York City purchased the property in 1926 and renamed it Heathcote Farm, it had lain idle for several years. Mr. Cook, who had been a stock broker and involved in real estate, turned his attention to restoring and expanding the farm.

With additional purchases of land, the property increased to 400 acres. For a time it was a unit of the Walker Gordon Dairy Farms and pasture for the dry stock as well as a source of produce and hay. Peter Cook farmed it himself for many years, beginning in 1940, and remembers planting 1,000 peach trees.

In recent times, the farm has gradually been subdivided, with some land going for development, some to family members and a 52-acre parcel which the house overlooks being given to the state as a nature preserve.

Musical Soirees. As important as the grounds are to the house, the 20-by-50 foot living room, with two huge tapestries and imported stained glass windows, will be remembered by many as the setting for musical soirees and other gatherings. Mrs. Grace Cook was the granddaughter of John Bigelow, the U.S. Ambassador to France during the Lincoln Administration and a cultured woman, fluent in several languages, interested in archaeology and the classics, adept at the piano, viola and harpsichord.

In the condominium plan, that living room will be divided into a living room-dining room, kitchen and bathroom, and a bedroom. Built for a formal lifestyle requiring a staff of servants, the house has outlived its usefullness as a single-family residence. Yet the property's historic, architectural and environmental character offer compelling reasons for preserving it as closely as possible to its present condition.

The condominium plan seems to be today's way of making that possible.

BUG-OF-THE-WEEK

By J. Drew Foster, Entomologist

SOD WEBWORM

Along with summer's dry spells and heat come brown areas in your lawn. These areas are often assumed to be due to the weather. However, lawn insects are frequently the culprits. The difference between normal summer browning out and insect damage is that the browning out will quickly regrow with the cooler evenings and increased rainfall of late summer. Insect-damaged turf doesn't readily regrow.

Sod webworms are several species of nocturnal caterpillars infesting turfgrass. They feed on the grass blades, cutting them short, and often killing the grass plant. The caterpillars range from ¼ to ¾ inch long, they're light brown, and they're covered with coarse hairs. The adult webworms are lawn moths. Lawn moths are about one inch long, whitish, gray or brown, with wings folding close to the body. They do not feed, but are very visible when present because they fly up from the grass as you walk through it in the evening.

Sod webworms overwinter in silken tunnels in the soil. They feed through the spring, pupate, and emerge as first generation lawn moths in June. The lawn moths are active at night, depositing eggs individually in the grass. The eggs hatch into sod webworms, and another feeding cycle begins. Several generations occur per year, and sod damage is potentially very serious.

Presently, the best way to control sod webworms is with a chemical application using sufficient water to thoroughly cover all grass parts and the soil surface.

If you suspect lawn insect problems are damaging your turf, or if you had them last year, give us a call for a free evaluation.

McCarter Theatre to Be Renovated; Feasibility Study Now Under Way

The cornerstone was laid in 1929. The curtain has gone up many times since then, and the McCarter Theatre Company trustees have decided the old building could do with a revival.

James Grieves, a Baltimore architect with theatre building experience, spent this past Monday at McCarter going through the entire building, line by line and scene by scene. He'll spend the summer working out a plan, and in September he'll be back, with a list and a price-tag.

"Our number one priority is acoustics," says Alison Harris, the theatre's general manager.

After that, there are many things: the ancient ventilating system, the cramped lobby, the inadequate ladies' room, the minute ticket-office.

18-month Rehearsal. It was in January of 1981 that the theatre company's trustees, after an all-day session, decided they should spend a full year on a long-range plan for the theatre. They assigned themselves to committees on programming, governance, earned income, unearned income, facilities

Princeton architect J. Robert Hillier, although not a member of any of the theatre's boards (he is, however, a McCarter Associate), volunteered to review the theatre's needs and to work on shaping the problem

This past January, the board reviewed his comments and voted to continue "aggressively," Ms Harris says. They went to Princeton University, owner of the building, and University officials agreed the theatre did indeed, require some work

With the University's planning office, McCarter trustees settled on Mr. Grieves, and although Ms. Harris uses the word "probably," it seems likely that he will be asked to move ahead Mr Grieves did the Center Stage Company and renovated the Wilmington Opera House.

Now, what McCarter needs is Mr. Grieves' feasibility study: how much money can the theatre raise? What should the timing be? What should be done first?

McCarter's season is brackeled by Princeton University's Triangle Club. The season opens with Triangle's presentations to the freshman class in September, and closes with the final Triangle Club show during Reunion Week in June That leaves only three scant months for work on the building.

She will play Beethoven Sonata in A Major, Chopin Nocturne in E flat Major and Ballade in f minor, Schumann Humoresque in B Flat Major Op 20.

On Thursday June 24, a recital for flute and piano is scheduled Jayn Siegel, former first flutist with the American Symphony under Stokowski, who currently plays with the Master Virtuosi and the New York Music Ensemble, will perform Bach E minor Sonata, Godard Idylle, Brahms Sonata in G Major, Rovics Cybernetics — Study No 1 (for alto flute, an unusual lower, longer 20th century instrument).

Phyllis A. Lehrer will be her counterpart at the piano. Ms. Lehrer recently made her debut in New York and is head of the piano department at the Choir College. She will also play two Bartok Roumanian Dances for solo piano.

TWO CONCERTS PLANNED

By Muir Quartet. When the Muir String Quartet returns to Princeton to open this summer's Outdoor Chamber Concert Series, it will be with a mini-festival of two separate concerts on the two consecutive evenings, Tuesday and Wednesday, June 22 and 23

Both concerts, free of charge, will be held in the main courtyard of the Princeton University Graduate College at 8:30 p.m. In case of rain, they will be in Alexander Hall.

In its first three years of existence, the Muir has made a meteoric rise in the musical world, having won the Naumburg Award in 1981, and in 1980, First Prize in the Evian International String Quartet Competition, a prize which is the musical equivalent of an Olympic Gold Medal.

Violinists Joseph Genualdi and Bayla Keyes, violist Steven Ansell, and cellist Michael Reynolds met at the Curtis Institute of Music in Philadelphia, spent a two-year residency at Yale supported by an Edward G. Wardwell Fellowship, and currently are at the University of California at Santa Cruz.

For the program on Tuesday, they have chosen to play Mozart's Dissonant Quartet, K. 465, Bartok's Sixth Quartet, and Mendelssohn's Quartet in E flat, Opus 44, No. 3. On the following evening, June 23, they will play Haydn's Quartet in d minor, Opus 76, No 2, Beethoven's Quartet in C Major, Opus 59, No. 3, and Ravel's Quartet in F Major.

This year's Summer Chamber Concert Series will include three additional events. On Wednesday, July 14, members of the Music Project will play the Schubert Octet and the Beethoven Septet. On Tuesday, July 27, the Boehm Quintette, a wind ensemble will perform, and on Wednesday, August 18, the New World String Quartet will play.

Those wishing to contribute to help offset the cost of these free concerts may do so at the event or by sending a tax-deductible check payable to the Trustees of Princeton University, to "Summer Chamber Concerts, Woolworth Center, Princeton, University."

IT'S NEW To Us

NEW LOCATION: Bruce Crandall, owner of Luttman's Luggege shop, is happier in his new location at 20 Witherspoon Street where the lerger space effords e better view of his fine selection of luggage and other items. Included emong the many display ceses is one showing the shop's collection of custom-mede knives, hend-crefted and ground, one of meny ideal Father's dey gifts to think ebout.

QUALITY IN ALL THINGS

At Luttmann's. When Bruce Crandall says that Luttmann's is the finest leather goods shop in New Jersey he is not joking! After a visit to his handsome new shop on 20 Witherspoon St. one will be convinced that there really could not be a better inventory of quality leather goods anywhere in this area including the major cities. Why not avoid the hassle of city shopping and look for your luggage, handbags, wallets, and other small gift items right here at home?

Mr. Crandall knows his inventory well,from the finest lining of soft kip skin from England to the most durable steel reinforcements of a piece of luggage which will last for years.

"The concept of my shop is quality in all things, people looking for inferior discounted pieces just shouldn't come here," explains Mr. Crandall whose quality comes in great quantities as well. His new space compared to his previous shop affords full displays of sets of luggage by all of the famous makers.

His new decor of soft saddle brown leather tones and handsome display cases make selection of a fine gift a refreshing experience. Luttmann's has a year round selection of fine gifts but summer is the time when many take off for parties unknown. The trip will be made more comfortable with an accessory from the shop.

Busy Time. This month of graduations and weddings has been a busy time for Luttmann's. This week many of us will stop in to find just the right gift for that all important father or grandfather. On June 20th he will be delighted with a gift of leather.

If he is a traveller numerous wallets, billfolds, passport cases (with each seam sewn individually which is hard to find) and toiletry kits await him. A lawyer and others who have a use for legal pads will be delighted to receive one of the handsome leather legal folders made exclusively in four ounce deerhide for Luttmann's.

These attractive leathers folders which also hold a week-at-a-glance calendar are lined in English kipskin and come in three sizes and two shades, medium and dark. Another ideal Father's Day gift might be one of the shop's stunning leather belts which range from the top of the line baby alligator, veal skin and calf's skin to the handsome regimental stripes. Fabric belts trimmed in leather for men and women include those with designs of pheasants, runners, ducks and other motifs for the active sportsperson.

Young men and women going off to college or graduate school might have use for a good-looking business case or portfolio and those going to work for the first time, one of Luttmann's superb attache cases. The shop has an inventory of more than four hundred cases in various styles and exquisite leahers including the flap style, expandable brief bags, and zip tops and those with combination or keyed locks. Among the most elegant of cases is an attache case in wine leather for business women and an English lap case for men.

There are many gifts for women at Luttmann's as there are for men. A fine assortment of handbags by Coach, Moscowitz, Trafalgar, Edward Greene Ltd. and Dooney Bourke are attractively displayed for easy selection.

Smaller less expensive items such as address books, leather bound calendars, key rings, all too-important these days, and credit card cases will make thoughtful gifts.

Of course Luttmann's has been selling the finest luggage available to Princeton residents for many years. The products with latest designs and technology for durability are always on view in the shop's large luggage section. A huge variety of duffles and hanging bags which can be carried on to an airplane are popular gift items for the seasoned traveler and students who want to travel light.

Mr. Crandall and his assistant Ron Angelini are always on hand to help you make the most educated decision in leather. Store hours are from 10 to 6 Monday to Saturday, Friday 10 to 8.

GOOD VALUE

At Goodsports. Everyone loves a bargain, but when it comes to top quality sports gear, many are weary of discounted prices. There is a misconception that just because the prices are better the article must be a second or of inferior quality. Not so at Goodsports!

The ability to discount the finest sports clothing available is a concept to which the shop's owner Steve Spiegel is committed. He thinks that the rising cost of clothing these days is out of line and is doing something constructive about it for his customers.

Goodsports has a terrific selection of clothes for many sports - particularly tennis, running and skiing - by all of our favorite manufacturers and designers. Athletic shoes by Nike, New Balance, Adidas and Tretorn are always discounted by 10 to 25 percent Presently there are many warm-up suits, still very useful for summer wear, up to 50 percent off the market price.

Though it takes many long hours of searching for the best and most reasonable actionwear which he buys in large quantities, Mr. Spiegel finds the work rewarding.

"To some it doesn't make a big difference to save four dollars on a pair of shoes, but if a family comes in here to buy athletic shoes for three kids, it does help the budget Things are expensive enough these days. I shop around the major manufacturers and see what prices I can come up with," explains Mr Spiegel.

This is a concept with which he feels comfortable and a visit to Goodsports will attest to the fact that it is a great boon to his customers. Look for some of his interesting coupon offers in the newspapers to save a few more dollars!

Now centrally located in the Mercer Mall, Goodsports still has its handsome knotty cedar interior decor and the same display shelf from Route 1 in Lawrenceville where they spent some years. Business is booming for the shop these days because those in search of athletic equipment may also take advantage of the Ticketron Service there. There are often long lines of concert-goers who rush there as soon as the tickets go on sale. While waiting it is interesting to watch Joseph Rommell at work on the racquet-stringing machine. Tennis racquets are a big item at Goodsports including the Prince "Pro", the graphite "Director," and the Prince "composite 210." Others available are those made by

Head and Dunlop. Tennis balls are also a good buy.

Soccer players of all ages will find just what they need at the shop which has a huge selection of the ever-popular Adidas "Mexico" shorts in many colors for $9.99. There are choices for men and women as well because the company has now introduced a line of what is termed "athleisurewear" in several pretty pastels designed to appeal to women. Lavanders, pinks, and bright green shorts, warm-up pants and shirts to match can be worn all day as well as for sports activities.

The long pants by Adidas are confortable, made of the same fabric as the shorts, and will keep the sportsperson warm during the morning and evening hours, covering up the shorts worn for tennis, swimming, running or sailing. They are practically becoming a national uniform! When in doubt for a gift idea for the younger set, buy a pair of these shorts.

Fathers who are athletes-and even those who aren't-would be delighted with a gift from Goodsports this Sunday. All of Dad's favorite brand names including Boast, Fred Perry, Adidas, Top Seed, and Court Casuals are in stock. What tennis playing father could not use a matching set of white shorts with a navy or red waistband and a matching Boast shirt or a handsome off-white combination?

It would be hard to find better prices for handsome Fred Perry and Boast shirts in an array of colors such as pink, pale yellow, and navy. Smaller gift items for tennis and jogging are thoughtful gifts such as wrist and head bands, a new pair of athletic socks, or perhaps a visor.

Beach-going fathers and teenagers alike will find a large selection of Lightening Bolt, corduroy shorts which are soft and comfortable doubling as swim suits. Hobie shirts with short or long sleeves are now seen on the beaches with sailing and surfing scenes. The complete line of tank suits for men and women by Head and Speedo will please the swimmers

Tennis clothes for women are of the latest fashions and very well priced including dresses, skirts, shorts and shirts made by Tail, Ruth Robbins, Top Seed and many others. Good-looking jackets can be combined with many of these matching outfits to complete the look. Tail visors in pretty colors, socks, and bloomers can also be found in the women's section.

The soccer section will yield a terrific $40 soccer ball on sale for $19 99, cleats by Adidas, and a wide variety of soccer shirts.

Shoes for running and tennis are one of the shop's best features. Nike, the New Balance 730, and various styles of Adidas shoes, many of a nylon mesh and suede combination for added strength and support are discounted up to 25 percent

"I am always looking for value and if I wouldn't go in and buy the item, I won't sell it," says Mr. Spiegel We would be wise to go in and buy what he has found. Store hours are from 9:30 to 9 Monday through Friday, 9 to 6 on Saturday, and 11 to 5 on Sunday.

-Susan Trowbridge

NEW HOME FOR GOODSPORTS: Joseph Rommell of Goodsports, newly located in the Mercer Mell, displays one of the shop's fine running shoes which are available at discounted prices. Shoes and clothing for tennis, running, swimming, soccer and skiing as well as a fine selection of tennis racquets are terrific buys and would make thoughtful father's day gifts

In the morning of that day, students may either visit the studio of Daniel Chester French, or the museum at Williamstown. The afternoon wil be free

To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter I have sent to Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley:

Boon docks for the elderly! The proposed Elm Road site is just that for PCH housing. Stashed out in the "country" transportation to town will be difficult and costly.

The best site is the strip of land between Terhune and the North end of Princeton Shopping Center parking lot, and east of North Harrison Street. Public transportation to town is available and the shopping center is within walking distance.

In the Township? So what! Change the master plan, the zoning. We want the best for our elderly. You can do it!

Housing on Harrison?
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Throughout the long, divisive and often acrimonious controversy over housing for Princeton's senior citizens, I have never heard nor seen in print, any reasonable explanation for the failure of Princeton Community Housing, local officials or the press, to give any consideration to the Harrison-Ewing Street axis as the logical location, or any support to those who have suggested this alternative as opposed to the Spring Street site.

Instead, those of us who voted "no" on the garage-housing referendum have been branded as obstructionist and reactionary, while short shrift has been given to valid alternatives: land adjacent to Princeton Community Village or the Shopping Center, along Bunn Drive, or the South Harrison Playground.

Prime property has meanwhile gone for commerical development, and now I see a monstrously ugly professional building in the wooded area at the north end of Ewing Street that would have been an ideal site for elder housing.

Now the utterly preposterous proposal of developing the remote and isolated Elm Road sewer field is being seriously advanced.

I am a "senior citizen" and anything but reactionary. I opposed the Spring Street referendum as making no sense economically, socially, esthetically, environmentally or practically. Did anyone ask our eligible seniors on very limited incomes how they felt about living in a multi-story apartment building on the midtown sidewalks, with no place to sit outdoors or for their own or visitors' cars, or for grandchildren to play, with noise and traffic and only expensive specialty shops accessible? Has anyone elicited their opinions about living off the beaten path on Elm Road?

As for Palmer Square-Nassau Street store owners who lament the defeat of the referendum, it is high rentals far more than lack of parking space for out-of-town shoppers that make it difficult for them to compete with malls. And higher taxes could only mean higher rents.

Employee parking for the increasing number of downtown offices consumes more and more of the available space. The president of the Chamber of Commerce implies that development of the 138 Nassau Street plot as an office building hinges upon a parking garage.

Why not some more imaginative approach: peripheral parking, or a large parking garage at some place other than the very center of town — the most valuable real estate — for long-term parking and office workers and shop employees, with minibuses or group-transport provided at the beginning and end of the business day by companies employing these many all-day parkers?

This would release much space for short-term shoppers, the local people who are never going to negotiate the ramps of a huge garage to run into the bank or an office, or to pick up something at a shop.

I suggest the need for a survey of midtown office and business employee parking and a study of alternatives as a means of opening up more shopper parking space.

And I urge the support of the press and of all those truly interested in the welfare of our older, less secure citizens, for housing on the Harrison Street axis, with its obvious advantages of open, green space, available good transportation, accessibility to supermarkets and stores and services in the Shopping Center, to the hospital and medical offices and the chance it offers architects to design some good, functional low-rise buildings in a sensible, convenient and agreeable location. Before it is TOO LATE.

Surely nothing could be more expensive — for those who think only in terms of the HUD subsidy — than the late lamented plan. And surely garden-type units in this central area are a happier alternative to both Spring Street and Elm Road.

Wildlife Lovers Take Note.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing in regard to the geese and goslings at Community Park North.

I was very saddened and angered to find a gosling with a broken leg. The leg was broken in two places, one break above the joint and one below. All indications were that it was maimed at the hands of someone who has no respect for a beautiful and defenseless creature. What infuriates me more is that this tragedy can occur again. I'm referring to the article that I wrote in the May 20th, 1981 issue of Town Topics, which concerned a smaller gosling with a broken neck.

Before this becomes a yearly occurence, these beautiful creatures need the support of all wildlife lovers.

A spare moment of your time could save their lives!

To WaWa — Thanks!
To the Editor of Town Topics:

I am writing to express my sincerest thanks to the WaWa Market for their efficiency and enthusiasm this week.

Traditionally, in Princeton, the candidates for Borough Council bring coffee and doughnuts to the election workers at the polling places on election morning. I called the WaWa the night before to place my order for 40 cups of coffee and 4 dozen doughnuts. I must admit that when the young lady who helped me Monday night took the message and said she would leave it for the people who would be working Tuesday morning, I doubted that anyone would know anything about it.

When I walked in the next morning and saw the 4 dozen doughnuts in boxes on the counter, 40 cups lined up, bags and sugar and cream and stirrers, I was absolutely astounded and so incredibly grateful to each and every worker who took the time to take the message, deliver the message and organize themselves to be ready when I arrived to pour the coffee!

It was the first time in months that I have dealt with a retail establishment where the employees have been courteous, conscientious, helpful and efficient beyond belief! Hats off to those young people at the WaWa and thanks from a grateful candidate's wife.

Candidate Says Thanks.
To The Editor of Town Topics:

I want to thank the people of Mercer County--friends all--for their support in my bid for the Freeholder nomination in the Democratic primary.

I said from the beginning that I would give the campaign my best shot, and I tried to do that. The people who contributed so generously to my efforts helped me more than I can say. Their faith and enthusiasm kept me going on a journey that was often frustrating and lonely, even as it was exciting.

I met many sincere people whose concern for their own personal future is mixed with a growing anxiety about the future of society as we know it. As a nation we have many pressing social problems which we cannot ignore.

If I did not win the primary, I hope I was able to underline the critical needs of the poor and disadvantaged among us whose voice is often not heard. I pledge to continue working on their behalf and on behalf of the Democratic procedures which guarantees to the least of us the right to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness." My wish is for the people in Mercer County to be sensitive to the many needs of our neighbors, and to join me in encouraging our elected officials to make the human needs of our people their first priority.

The day after the primary, Father Marte of St. Michael's Episcopal Church in Trenton called me. He said, "When you are honest, when you act with sincerity and integrity, you are never in the minority. God is on your side." I thank Father Marte for those words. I offer them to all my friends who share my concerns. Let us pray that God is on the side of a continuing humanity.

Toma Coverage.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We are grateful for the support given by Town Topics to the appearance of David Toma sponsored by the newly formed Fund For Drug And Alcohol Abuse. Advance publicity helped us raise money to pay expenses and especially to fund follow-up programs.

Your coverage also helped bring thousands to hear Toma at Jadwin Gymnasium. We all heard the mesasge: "Get high on life, not drugs." We hope that aroused community consciousness will stimulate greater involvement in preventing drug and alcohol abuse. We all need to care more about each other. A special thanks to Kay Bretnall.

CLOSE ONES GET AWAY From Princeton Post 76 Team. It was, conceded Princeton Post 76 coach Pete Millington, not a very good week.

In contrast to last year's fast start, Post 76 has been left standing in the gate with an 0-4 record in the American Legion race when it dropped three games last week.

One was a 7-6 loss to unbeaten Hamilton Saturday in 14 innings, after Princeton had apparently won the game by scoring three runs in the top of the ninth. The previous day, Bordentown eked out a 4-3 win when it plated two runs in the final inning after Princeton had taken a one-run lead and earlier in the week the team was blanked 5-0 by Ewing.

"We're not playing badly," said Millington. The one thing his team had been lacking, he noted, is the timely base hit.

No Place Like Home. "It will be nice to get home," added Millington. "The kids see that as an advantage."

Post 76 has yet to play a game on its home field — Princeton University's Clarke Field. Sunday's scheduled home opener with the BSP Browns was rained out and will be played Friday evening at Clarke at 5:45.

"We're hoping when we get on Clarke we can put something together," said Millington. "We had a tough schedule to open up with; unfortunately we didn't win those close ones which were within our grasp."

Post 76 will make up for its string of away games this week. Weather permitting, by Monday the 76ers will have played five consecutive games at Clarke Field.

Princeton will entertain Hightstown this Wednesday, Trenton Post 93 Thursday, the Browns (makeup game) on Friday — all at 5:45 — and Hopewell Saturday at 1. Sunday's scheduled game with Lawrence had been rescheduled for the following day because of graduation.

Ender Delivers. A two-out base hit by first baseman Keith Ender which was scored as a single and error when the ball shot under the center fielder's legs was the critical hit in a three-run rally by Princeton in the final inning of regular play against Hamilton. That gave Princeton a 6-5 lead.

Then, when Hamilton got its leadoff batter on base, Millington replaced starter John Majarwitz with Bill Bastedo. Hamilton attempted to bunt the runner to second where Princeton made the play.

"Everyone thought the runner was out but the umpire," recalled Millington, who was ejected for protesting the controversial call too vehemently. "I thought I had a good gripe there and I let him know it," he said.

After Hamilton went on to jam the bases with no outs, it managed to push across only the tying run as Princeton got out of the jam with a double play.

Hamilton (5-0) who had 17 hits, four each by shortstop Bob Marino and second baseman Colasurdo, won it in the 14th. Centerfielder Keith Phox had three of Princeton's eight hits.

Against Bordentown, a homer by Ender early in the game and another by starting pitcher Danny Arendas in the top of the eighth gave Princeton a 3-2 lead. "It was a nine-inning game but it was obvious it was going to be called because of darkness," said Millington.

Millington replaced Arendas on the mound for the final inning with Judd Petrone. "It was unfortunate. Petrone was throwing very hard, but he couldn't find the plate in the dusk, said Millington.

After Hamilton had loaded the bases on two walks and an error, Petrone walked home the tying and winning runs. Bordentown's Rick Smith got the wind, scattering four Princeton hits.

Walks Costly. Princeton began the week by outhitting Ewing 8 to 4, but losing the game.

Millington noted that all five Ewing runs came as a result of a walk. Bastedo, the former Hightstown High hurler, pitched well for Post 76 but was the victim of six free passes.

Ender had three singles off winning pitcher Len Navarro, who helped his own cause by picking two Princeton runners of base and starting one of two Ewing double plays.

For Ewing, which won its first game of the season, Jeff Gilmer doubled home two runs in the fourth and Mike Pasquito had a two-run single in the sixth

3-WAY BATTLE LOOMS In Women's Softball. In games last week in the Princeton Women's Adult Slow Pitch Softball League Andy's Tavern routed Koffee Kup, 17-2, and Conte's Bar edged Princeton Indoor Tennis Center, 9-8. Both winners and Mike's Tavern have won three games.

In the more exciting of the two contests, PITC got out to an early 2-0 lead, but Conte's got 3 runs. Conte's scored three runs in the second and third innings to make the score 6-2. During these innings, Peggy Wood, Harriet Staub (3 for 4, 3 RBI's), Fran Johnston, Leigh Versfeld, Laine Ivan and winning pitcher Cathy Burrough all hit well for Conte's

Following a scoreless fourth, PITC got two in the top of the fifth, but Conte's added a run in its half of the inning, on a pair of triples by Staub and Johnston, to lead 7-4. Conte's increased its lead on hits by Cynthia Lucullo, Burrough, Wood, and Staub, to put the game seemingly out of reach at 9-4. PITC however staged a dramatic comeback in the seventh, scoring four runs and nearly tied the game, had not a baserunner been tagged out at home to end the rally.

For PITC, Kelly Hector opened the inning with a double, Marte Pierson got on on an error, and Sue Brainard got a single, scoring Hector. Carol Beske walked, and with t out, Anne Williams drove in two runs to make the score 9-7. With two out, Liz Cramp hit a single, which drove in Beske and advanced Williams to third. Williams got the green light to go for home with the potential tying run, but Conte's shortstop Barb Falcone took the relay from the outfield and made a perfect throw to catcher Lucullo, who applied the tag for the fianl out.

In the other game, Andy's Tavern scored 17 runs, pounded out 23 hits, and winning pitcher Mary Foxx allowed just three hits, as the game was ended at the end of five innings under the 15-run rule.

Andy's scored in every inning It was led at the plate by Lisa Schmidt (a perfect 4-for-4). Beth Muzyka (3-for-4, including a home run and 6 RBI's), Donna Woodruff (3-for-4), and Marty Heard (3-for-4). Also hitting well were Marie Wszolek, Kim Bedensen, Judy Kroeper and Foxx For the Kup, Barbara Rice tripled and Jay Edwards and Penny Rice also had hits.

Games this Wednesday at 6:15 pit Andy's Tavern against PITC and Mike's Tavern against Koffee Kup

Carlos Fuentes, a recent Princeton resident, author and Mexican diplomat, was awarded an honorary doctorate of humane letters during Wesleyan University's 150th Commencement.

The citation accompanying his degree read, in part, "In your prolific writing — thought-provoking journalism, short stories, plays, novels, and essays — you throw bold light into dark places where man is confined by the ancient and ongoing struggle between barbarism and civilization. You remind the America of the north that the Americas of the south have histories too; and that revolutionary yearnings are indigenous growths of all American soil."

The son of a career diplomat, Mr. Fuentes was born in Mexico City but spent his early years in such capitals as Washington, D.C.; Rio de Janeiro; Santiago de Chile; Buenos Aires; Montevideo; and Quito. He returned home to study law at the University of Mexico and subsequently attended the Institut des Hautes Etudes Internationales in Geneva, Switzerland.

He has served his native Mexico in numerous capacities — as a member and secretary of the Mexican delegation to the International Labor Organization in Geneva (1950-52), as assistant chief of the press section of the Ministry of Foreign Affairs (1954), and as head of the ministry's cultural relations department (1957-59). He also was secretary and assistant director of cultural dissemination at the University of Mexico in 1955-56.

Mr. Fuentes' political views led U.S. immigration authorities to bar him from entering Puerto Rico in February 1969 He also was excluded from his own country for a time after he denounced the Mexican government's killing of demonstrators at the 1968 Olympic Games. Later he resigned as ambassador to France (1974-77) in protest over the appointment of Gustavo Diaz Ordaz, the man he held responsible for the 1968 slaying, as Mexico's ambassador to Spain.

Hathaway
for Fathers' Day

Did you see the golf shirt
Jack Nicklaus wore this weekend..

It's called the Hathaway Golf Classic. Jack Nicklaus wears it for a lot of good reasons. The comfort is playing comfort, not just clubhouse comfort; full in the sleeve for a free unhampered swing; nothing to bind or chafe; nothing to take your mind off the game. The fabric is what you need when things get hot and sticky: a fine 100% mercerized cotton lisle; it breathes and absorbs. It even works in the wash: basin, machine or commercial laundry. No wonder Jack Nicklaus wears it!
